

General on line instructions for Mr. Finch's PJH and PHS classes

In our current situation. Clearly there are things that can be done on line and at home and things that cannot be. For example I do not expect my Photoshop students to work on their projects because I don't expect them to even have Photoshop at home. I do not expect my Stained Glass students to grind or solder their projects at home because they do not have that equipment at home. In these two classes, the number of required assignments will be lowered.

However there are some things that can be done given our current situation.

My goal is not to overburden students with assignments. My hope is that any assignments, can be graded when we come back to school.

Notes: Those classes that write hand written daily notes will continue to do so, Students whom I have already invited to type them due to illegible handwriting will continue to do so. One note per day M-TH will be sent out via e-mail to students and parents of my Photoshop, Drawing Man Made Objects, and Drawing Comic Strip / Cartooning classes.

On Monday 3-16-20, as a precaution to a possible school closure, I did ask the following:

Drawing Comic Strip/Cartooning students were asked to take home as many Bristol board comic strip templates as needed to continue to work on their comic strip ROUGH drafts, which we will discuss in person before they are inked.

Stained Glass students were asked to check out a burnisher and foil so they could continue working on foiling their pieces at home.

Drawing 2 students that planning on making a clay head to take clay 4 lbs. of clay home in case they wanted to get started at home. I also told my Drawing 2 students to e-mail me any reference before that I approve the start of a new project including the clay head.

I will be checking incoming e-mail at noon Monday through Thursday and will do, my best to reply with any questions that may arise.

You Tube Videos:

Some classes have already watched You Tube videos as part of my in class presentations. As needed, I will send out previously seen or new titles to be searched up and viewed at home. If I make any audio files myself I will send out links.
